PORTFOLIO PERFORMANCE (COMMENTS)

AS OF 31ST DECEMBER 2025

Overseas Developed Markets Equity Fund

AI-related market shifts were most evident in the US, where weakness in major tech names like Microsoft and Nvidia caused the region to lag the global index. The portfolio's tilt toward high-quality, cash-generative companies—rather than more cyclical tech—resulted in slight underperformance versus the benchmark. Japan showed a similar pattern, with long-term quality holdings also trailing as markets succumbed to similar themes as the US.

Looking ahead to 2026, the key question is whether equities will rise again on the back of the AI theme, whether the rotation into other parts of the tech supply chain signals healthier, broader participation, or whether the AI momentum fades entirely, putting valuations at risk.

UK Listed Equity Fund

UK equities continued to reach new all-time highs during Q4, outperforming the global index. The uncertainty running into the November budget was an overhang on UK equities that eased as fiscal headroom proved larger than anticipated, helping to stabilise the gilts market. The equity market was driven higher by a diverse range of sectors including mining, pharmaceuticals, electricity, and banking.

Emerging Markets Equity Fund

Over the quarter EM ex. China equities significantly outperformed Chinese equities, with the FTSE EM ex. China Index posting a 6.8% return in contrast to the FTSE China Index returning -6.9%.

China Managers: Both China specialists outperformed their regional benchmark, supported by exposure to innovative companies experiencing growing overseas demand.

Internal Ex-China Mandate: Outperformed its regional benchmark. Performance was driven mainly by stock selection in Taiwanese electronic components and advanced packaging names with strong contributions from AI related demand.

ASE Technology was a notable contributor, benefitting from a broader cyclical recovery in the outsourced semiconductor packaging and test market, resulting in an increase in earnings forecasts going forwards.

APPENDIX

PRIVATE EQUITY / INFRASTRUCTURE – IRR AND TVPI DEFINITIONS

IRR and TVPI (Pages 8 - 10)

- Internal Rate of Return (IRR): Most common measure of Private Equity performance. IRR is technically a discount rate: the rate at which the present value of a series of investments is equal to the present value of the returns on those investments.
- Total Value to Paid-in Capital (TVPI): TVPI is the sum of the DPI and RVPI. TVPI is net of fees. TVPI is expressed as a ratio.
- Distributions to Paid-in-Capital (DPI): The amount a partnership has distributed to its investors relative to the total capital contribution to the fund. DPI is expressed as a ratio. Also known as realization ratio.
- Residual Value to Paid-in Capital (RVPI): The measure of value of the limited partner's interest held within the fund, relative to the cumulative paid-in capital. RVPI is net of fees and carried interest. This is a measure of the fund's "unrealized" return on investment. RVPI is expressed as a ratio.
